More about WASCO . . .

Watercolor Artists of Sonoma County (WASCO) is a watermedia organization founded in 1993 by a group of Sonoma County watercolor artists. The principal purpose of WASCO is to educate the public as to the many values of watercolor and to escalate the acceptance of watercolor as being an art form which should be sought and treasured along with other contemporary art forms. Monthly programs consist of demonstrations and lectures by well known and respected watercolor artists. Their web site is www.wascoart.org.

WASCO has had several shows at Gualala Arts Center and several of their members have won awards at the annual Art in the Redwoods exhibit.
